Boston Pitcher Lasted But Four Innings

AGAINST WASHINGTON

Home Team Lost Because Patten Kept
Seven Hits Scattered After Second Inning—Boston Nationals Won Out.

Boston, July 3.—Boston put in Tannehill against Washington yesterday afternoon and Washington sent him to the stable after the fourth, scoring five runs on six hits. Patten kept the Boston bingles scattered after the second inning, when the locals scored their only two runs against the visitors' six.

Boston scored her two when Grimshaw got hit by the pitcher and went to second and third on outs and scored on Ferris' single. Shaw's single put Ferris on third and Tannehill brought him in. Sullivan was the third out, and after that inning Boston could do little with Patten.

Washington tallied twice in the second on Perrine's pass, Akizer's single and Sullivan's wild throw to catch Perrine at third, the ball going into the bleachers. Ganley's bunt, Delehanty's sacrifice and Anderson's single scored another in the third. Singles by Altizer, Warner and Hughes, with two stolen bases sandwiched in between gave the visitors two more in the fourth, after which Pruitt went into the box. The newcomer did better, striking out five and keeping the score down to one. That one was scored in the seventh on a succession of bunts. The score:

Express Train—Scalp Wounds

London, July 2.—The son of John S. Higham, M. P., has had a remarkable escape from death. He fell from an express train, and though he received severe scalp wounds, he does not appear to be injured seriously.

The boy, who is 4 years old, was traveling with his mother from Liverpool to London. At Stafford the train was put into the carriage by a railroad employee who neglected to fasten the door when he left the carriage. Presently the boy leaned against the carriage door, which flew open, and he fell backward on to the line.

IN THE HAYWOOD TRIAL

Max Malich, Witness for Haywood in the Murder Trial, Tells of Dealings With Confessed Slayer.

Boise, Idaho, July 3.—Commencing the seventh day of direct examination of its witnesses today the defense in the trial of William D. Haywood bids fair to exceed by several days its promise to close within eight days after the opening speeches.

The foundation laid by the testimony of the former stenographer of the Pinkerton agency, who, to use his own words, "gave back to the rightful owners" the secrets entrusted to him by his employers, is being used to help build the structure by which the defense hopes to convince the jury and the public that there has been a widespread conspiracy to wreck the Western Federation and convict its officers of murder.

Judge Wood has ruled that the defense may go into this conspiracy only so far as its ramifications extend in the states of Colorado and Idaho.

Counsel for the defense, however, states that they can show a conspiracy of employers extending through many states in the Union, and intended to affect union labor everywhere and they propose to try to get the whole thing before the jury.

Counsel for the prosecution say that while they made no objection to the introduction of Pinkerton reports affecting the Colorado situation, and even asked for more, the matter introduced so far has failed to show that the Pinkertons were employed or retained by the mine owners or the Citizens' Alliance of Colorado. Consequently they say that the foundation not having been laid for the conspiracy which the defense has alleged, they will resist any further introduction of any similar evidence as to conspiracy in any other state.

The defense continued yesterday the Colorado story in which Orchard told of the proposal to blow up a union boarding house at Globeville, just outside of Denver. In this he incriminated a number of people, including Max Malich, who is expected to be one of the witnesses.

Max Malich was called to the stand when court opened. He was a smelter man at Globeville, Colo., at the time of the strike in 1903.

"Did you know a man named Harry Orchard, alias Thomas Hogan?" asked Mr. Richardson.

"I was introduced to Tom Hogan by a Pinkerton detective named A. W. Gratias," Malich said. He did not know that Gratias was a detective at that time, for he was working secretly and was acting as president of the local smelters' union. Malich was proprietor of a small hotel at the time.

Orchard had testified that Malich had suggested to him the blowing up of a hotel where 150 non-union miners were living and had helped him steal 100 pounds of dynamite from the Union Pacific powder house. Malich declared that the testimony was all false.

Malich said Orchard in the month following. This time Orchard told him the smelter company's store was taking all his trade away from him. He offered to "do up" William McDonald, the proprietor of the store, for $100.

Malich said he told Orchard that he had all the trade he wanted and he would not have anybody killed on his account. The next time he saw Orchard was when the man was writing him in prison.

Witness Malich, testifying yesterday afternoon, declared that Orchard several times told him he would get even with Governor Steunenberg if he swung for it, because the governor had caused him to lose a fortune.

MAY SANCTION MARTIAL LAW

Carlos's Reported Promise to DEMONSTRATION AGAINST

Crown Prince of Portugal—Porte Dismisses the Governor of Bitlis—Said to Have Appropriated Famine Relief Money.

Lisbon, July 3.—At the moment of the departure Monday afternoon of the Crown Prince Luis Philippe on a tour of the colonies a number of persons on board a tug in the harbor indulged in a hostile demonstration. The port police at once surrounded the vessel and placed those on board under arrest. King Carlos is said to have promised Premier Franco to sanction the martial law should such a measure become necessary in order to uphold the monarchy. Although order has been restored, the troops are still under arms for fear of a renewal of the rioting.

TURKISH GOVERNOR DISMISSED

Said to Have Taken Money Sent for Re-

Constantinople, July 3.—Ferid Bey, governor of Bitlis, Turkish Armenia, has been ordered to proceed to Erzingan and await the result of the inquiry into the recent racial conflicts between Mohammedans and Armenians. This practically amounts to his dismissal, as it is certain he will not return to Bitlis. The money sent to the governor for the relief of the sufferers was, it is asserted, chiefly spent in embellishing his residence.

Yesterday.

The Hague, July 3.—The sub-committee of the peace conference on the treatment of belligerent ships in neutral harbors met yesterday, Count Tornelli of Italy presiding.

M. Neldoff, president of the conference, was present. The committee discussed six articles of the German proposition making additions to the convention of 1864 by the adoption of the Red Cross convention to sea warfare.

Count Tornelli remarked that after the war with Austria in 1866, Italy was the first to acknowledge the necessity to adapt for such sea wars the same rules as in land wars.

KIDNAPPERS INDICTED.

Two Women Among Those Accused of Killing Lamana Boy.

New Orleans, July 3.—Nine Italians, two of them women, were indicted for murder yesterday in the Lamana kidnapping case.

While it is admitted by the prosecution that certainly not more than one of those indicted had anything to do with the actual strangling to death of the little Lamana boy, the others are alleged to have known enough about the kidnapping to have prevented the murder.

These nine will be tried in St. Charles Parish near New Orleans.

TWO MEN KILLED BY FOUR-TON ROCK

New York Tunnel Workers Crushed in the Tunnel Under Harbor.

New York, July 3.—Two men were instantly killed and several others injured by the falling of a heavy stone in the thirty-second street bore of the Pennsylvania railroad tunnel under Second avenue about seven o'clock yesterday morning.

The dead are: August Weber, foreman, and Vittorio Preppi, laborer. Weber was leading about 150 men through the tunnel, having entered it at the opening, 31 East Thirty-second street. When half a mile in the tunnel there was a terrific rumbling of the earth.

Before the men could run, a rock weighing fully four tons came crashing suddenly in their midst. Weber and Preppi were caught directly under the stone and frightfully crushed.

The other laborers, though hit by fragments of rock, were not seriously injured.

CATTLE ON GRASS.

A Few Reasons For Including Grain In Summer Feed.

The value of grain fed to cattle on grass has been questioned when the grass is abundant, nourishing and not overabundant. The addition of grain will add but little, if anything, to the increase at such a time, but it will of course add to the increase before grass reaches such a stage of growth and again when it has become overchecked in growth by summer heat. Why, then, it may be said, should grain be fed at such a time?

An Open Question.

Whether it should be fed or not may be an open question, but in weighing it the following considerations are opportune: First, the grain fed must effect a saving in grass. The amount of the saving may not equal the value of the grain. It is certain that it will not, for grass is relatively cheaper than grain. Second, the meat from grain fed animals is more in favor with the butchers than that finished only on grass. It is usually better finished, the flesh is firmer and the animals dress better in the carcasses; hence they command a better price. Third, the grain fed tends somewhat more to the enrichment of the land. The extent of this, however, is measured by the character of the grain. It may be advantageous therefore in some instances to feed grain even when the grass is at its best.

Much Cheaper Than Grain.

Since grass is much cheaper relatively than grain, it becomes a matter of much importance to keep down the amounts of grain fed to minimum quantities. They should unquestionably be fed in less quantity ordinarily than in winter feeding, but the amount to be fed will vary with conditions. It will vary with such conditions as the time for turning off, the condition of the grass and the nature of the market.—Professor Shaw in Orange Judd Farmer.

CURING CLOVER.

Mow in Morning, Preferably After the Dew is Off.

A good method of curing clover hay is as follows: Mow in morning, preferably after the dew is off. As soon as the clover begins to wilt start the tedder and keep the hay in the air as much as possible. Rake in time to get the clover in the cock before the dew falls. Allow to stand about two days, shake out just enough to give the hay a good airing, and it can be put in the barn safely. The natural way for the water in the plant to evaporate is through the leaves. If the leaves are allowed to become dry and shriveled, no water will pass from the stem to the air through them, and in handling the hay many of the leaves are broken off and lost. The tedder should be run over the hay often enough to keep the leaves from drying up on one side while on the other side they remain green, advises a writer in New England Homestead.

The same heating process goes on in the cock that would in the mow, only not as fast or as vigorously. After the hay is partly dry much of the remaining water can be got rid of in the cock easier and with less waste of "chaff" than in any other way. It is String Beans.

Under favorable circumstances the best varieties of beans yield very large quantities of pods. It is not unusual to gather 200 bushels of string beans from an acre, the price ranging from $2.50 to $3.00 per bushel basket from early in the season until its close for any particular locality.—L. C. Corbett.
